

McLAUGHLIN COLLEGE

As part of our popular Lunch Talk series
McLaughlin College Proudly Presents:

“Practical and Practicing Ethics:

The Development, implementation and operation of a municipal ethics program from a Councillor’s Perspective”

Presented by:

Alan Shefman

This presentation will provide insight from the perspective of a municipal councillor on the nature of ethics and ethical behaviour at the municipal level. The discussion will look at the history of ethics on Vaughan Council from the year 2000 on. It will then document the steps taken to establish both an Integrity Commissioner and a Code of conduct for Councillors. Finally, it will attempt to provide insight into how the new ethics regime has worked over the last 12 years.

ALAN SHEFMAN (BA Hons, M.A.) is a graduate of York and Carleton Universities. He is presently Councillor, Ward 5 – Thornhill, in the City of Vaughan. He has been the President of the York University Alumni Association and a member of the Board of Governors. He is currently a fellow of McLaughlin College and was a Member and Research Associate with the York University Centre for Practical Ethics from 2001 - 2013. Mr. Shefman has been involved professionally with human rights issues for over 35 years. He is currently the President of The Edge Quality/Communications Consultants, one of Canada’s foremost human rights focussed consultancies.
